“ The loss of Liz lays heavy in our hearts and peace comes in knowing she has gone to a better place. She's now in heaven to watch over us, and love us. She will be truly loved and missed by us. She fought for life right up to the end. Fortunately she was loved by her immediate family and received wonderful support from her loved ones. Her family always included furry four legged friends and she always had special place in her heart for cats and dogs. She fought with every last bit of life wishing to visit her mother one last time, showing her love for her family and we will always remember her for this. Love your mother and brother Jim.
