“ Have you heard of the rich man who hears that there are four words which will explain the secret of life, but they are known only to a very old hermit who is almost impossible to find. The man is so desperate to learn the four magic words that he travels the world over and finally he climbs the highest mountain in Tibet and there, exhausted and penniless, he locates the old man. And the old man haltingly tells him the secret of life, "This too shall pass." Amen

“ In the early 70's I worked at US Motors. Will was always busy with a smile on this face.
